

FORCES OF THE U. N. HAMMER FORWARD RELENTLESSLY AGAINST STIFFENING COMMUNIST RESISTANCE ON THE CENTRAL KOREAN FRONT; REDS LOSE 24,000 IN 3 DAYS

Enemy Falls Back on West-Central Front, But on East Wing of Mid-Korean Sector They Battle Tenaciously from Deeply-Entrenched Positions — Exchange of Small-Arms Fire Continues During Night.

By Lee Ferrero

(U. N. S. War Correspondent)

TOPOYO, Mar. 10—(INS)—United Nations forces hammered forward relentlessly today against stiffening Communist resistance on the central Korean front.

Communist forces, hit by the loss of more than 24,000 men in casualties for three days fell back on the west-central front. But on the east wing of the flaming mid-Korean sector North Korean Reds battled tenaciously from deeply entrenched hill positions despite heavy ground, air and artillery attacks.

Night long exchanges of small arms fire on the east-central front erupted in volcanic action Saturday morning as Allied troops smashed head-on at Red units guarding the approaches to Hongchon. Hongchon, Red assembly center in the mountain fastnesses of central Korea, lies 22 miles south of the 38th Parallel and 47 miles east-northeast of Seoul.

U. S. Marines in the center of the line above the mid-Korean hub of Hoengsong sent patrols spearing to points within eight miles of Hongchon.

On the west-central front, American 25th Division infantrymen, led by tanks, enlarged their bridgehead north of the Han river after gaining four and a half miles Friday. This bridgehead posed an increasing flanking threat to Red defenders of Seoul.

The veteran U. S. 24th Division withstood four Chinese Red counter-assaults Friday night although about midnight they lost high ground north of Okchon, a Pukhan valley town 26 miles east of Seoul. The high ground was regained by the Americans in a spirited attack Saturday morning.

On the right flank of the 24th Division, the American First Cavalry entered the crossroads village of Yondogwon, seven and a half miles southwest of Hongchon. The fighting, fast mechanized cavalry thrust caught the Reds off guard.

N. J. Grange Master Is Anniversary Speaker

WOODSIDE, Mar. 10—A program appropriate to the occasion, together with a banquet, marked the 75th anniversary of Lower Bucks Pomona Grange, No. 22, Wednesday evening in the community house here.

Delegations from Upper Bucks Pomona, Berks County and New Jersey were also in attendance. Franklin H. Nixon, master of New Jersey State Grange, and chaplain of the National Grange, was the speaker.

New Jersey, at one time principally agricultural, he said, now has but one county that has more farms than it had 20 years ago, and that is in the blueberry section, where nothing else will grow. Industry, he said, controls the state, and it eventually will take complete control.

Speaking of the world situation and progress over a span of 75 years, Mr. Nixon said the Grange was founded to improve agricultural conditions and to bring better feeling between north and south. The grangers, it was said, discussed and solved their problems, bettered rural life and thought and promoted goodwill among men.

The speaker declared that the farmer is blamed for the high cost of living, but food, he said, has advanced less than any other commodity. Highlighting the meeting was the presentation of a complete history of Pomona by Mrs. Henry C. Pickering, of Middletown Grange, who said it was established in January, 1876. The farmers at that time, it was said, feared the bicycle would supplant the horse and that the decrease in the number of horses would ruin the price of hay. They felt that electricity was not practical for use on the farm and that no farmer could afford an automobile.

Past masters introduced were: Jesse G. Webster, Charles Rowe, Henry C. Pickering, Frank L. Magill, Amos Satterthwaite and George H. Yerkes. Brief remarks were made by State Deputy Arthur Landis, of Upper Bucks Pomona, who welcomed Henry C. Pickering as the new State Deputy of Pomona No. 22.

Serving as toastmaster was William DeCou, and the oldest living past master, Jesse Webster, cut the anniversary cake.

LEGISLATION AIMED AT WATER POTENTIAL

Expanded Inventory of Pennsylvania Groundwater Supplies Planned

FORCED COOPERATION

(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, Mar. 10—(INS)—An expanded inventory of Pennsylvania's groundwater supplies via forced cooperation of well drillers is a goal today of conservationists in Gov. John S. Fine's Administration.

House majority leader Charles C. Smith, of Philadelphia, said Administration legislation which is slated to begin moving through the Legislature next week is aimed at plumbing the vast potential of underground water.

Groundwater is being drawn increasingly by business and industry for everyday operations, he pointed out. Every section of Pennsylvania is affected by the problem. Untold millions of gallons of groundwater are pumped each day in some areas and the heavy drain sometimes forces industry to curtail or suspend operations until the supply has been "recharged," he reported.

Smith's bill would require every water well driller after September 1, 1951, to be licensed by the State Department of Forests and Waters. Within 40 days after completing a well, the driller would have to file a report with the Department.

The monthly meeting of Donna Antonietta Grandi Lodge, No. 1634, will be held on Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Newport Terrace Fire Co. will meet Monday evening at eight o'clock in the fire station.

The military manpower bill endorsed by the Truman Administration, calling for the lowering of the draft age to 18 and universal military training, was adopted yesterday by the Senate. The vote was 79 to 5, all five opponents being Republicans. The measure now goes to the House, where the Armed Services Committee is expected to report its own bill early next week.

House Republican leaders announced they would endeavor to place in the House bill a stipulation "providing that no troops shall be committed to the European area until the necessary authorization for such commitment is approved by both bodies of Congress."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Gromyko warned the Paris meeting of the Big Four deputies that the Soviet Union could not accept any agenda for the consideration of the Big Four Foreign Ministers that did not include the question of German "demilitarization" and "remilitarization."

Herbert Morrison has been named to succeed British Foreign Secretary Bevin, who has resigned because of ill health. The French Assembly, by a vote of 359 to 205, endorsed Henri Queuille as the new Premier of France.

W. C. T. U. MEMORIAL IS IN HONOR OF WOMEN

"Mother" Caroline Moore and Mary Harris Amor Eulogized

SESSION AT NEWTOWN

NEWTOWN, Mar. 10—Newtown W. C. T. U. convened Thursday at the home of Mrs. Wilfred Smith, the program starting with a memorial for "Mother" Caroline Moore, and Mary Harris Amor.

Mrs. Moore had put most of her energies through a long passing of years in work for soldiers and sailors in the Philadelphia area; and Mrs. Amor of Georgia had used her talent in public speaking to arouse the indifferent to evils of the liquor traffic.

Mrs. Vincent Shaudys, county president of the W. C. T. U., who had just returned from a three days State W. C. T. U. executive session at Harrisburg, presented plans which locals were asked to follow. Mrs. Shaudys said that while the time set for raising the New Crusade fund had been set for a five-year period, it was now decided to ask all Pennsylvania Unions to complete their contributions by July 1952.

She further told of new films, one—"Public Enemy Number One"—sponsored by the W. C. T. U., which will be shown at the April 14th County Institute to be held in Slies Methodist Church; the second, "The Truth Shall Make You Free," sponsored by a Temperance and Tolerance League.

Miss Elizabeth A. Woodman had as her subject "Outstanding Women at Our Nation's Capitol." Mrs. Harry Truman headed this list and was followed by the one woman senator and eight women members of the House of Representatives. Miss Elizabeth A. Smart, national W. C. T. U. worker, and Mrs. Anna Lee Stuart, national president of W. I. L., she felt more worthy of their high positions. Mrs. Anna Rosenberg assistant secretary of defense, has had a brilliant career, but the speaker thought "a woman was a poor choice for this military job." Madame Pandot was spoken of highly, as she has aided greatly in international understanding.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Stephen Vandergrift.

Residence of Author Looted by Vandals

TINICUM, Mar. 10—A new home, owned by Pulitzer prize winning author, James A. Michener, and Mrs. Michener, was burglarized Wednesday by vandals. It is announced. The Micheners are en route home from the Far East.

How much damage has been done and what has been stolen cannot be determined definitely until the Micheners arrive home and check.

The entire interior of the house was ransacked by the vandals, who broke in by removing a window lock. A typewriter, valuable radio, and an electric mixing machine are but a few of the things stolen.

A modern food locker and cold storage unit was forced open, but the only contents stolen was canned fruit. Meat in the freezer was not touched.

Valuable kitchen equipment, including an electric washer and sink were ripped off and left standing as if there had not been time to complete the theft.

So far as known at this time, the valuable paintings in the house were not touched.

State Police from the Doylestown sub-station were notified of the robbery by Robert Dreger, a caretaker who lives nearby. Dreger had been in the house on Tuesday night to look after the furnace fire and everything was okay. When he returned Wednesday morning, the vandalism was discovered and reported.

PEACE AS A MENACE

Two or three times since the end of World War II, the Truman Administration has got the international situation into such a complicated mess that the worst disaster which could happen would have been a sudden outburst of peace.

Now we're back in that rut.

If Joe Stalin's little boys, meeting with Uncle Sam's representatives in the Big Four conference at Paris, were able to do or to say something which would convince the world that there is a ten or twenty year era of peace ahead, it would be the most destructive economic atom-bomb ever set off.

This country would go into a tail-spin that would make the Depression look like a picnic. With the precarious condition of national currency and national credit, such an outbreak of peace might cause a collapse of our government and our country.

Think it over. Our whole financial structure is geared to the theory that there is going to be a war-budget running around sixty billions a year for the next several years. Peace would cut that budget in half. The production upon which industry plans to carry the tax burden is war production. Peace would demoralize industry. We have millions of civilians, and three million men in uniform, who would be released from their present jobs if peace returned—and where, pray tell, could they go except on relief?

The industrial activity would be slashed in half overnight, and many millions now engaged in non-industrial activities would be turned loose to look for jobs—what would that spell except the grand-daddy of all Depressions?

You may have noted that our representatives at the Paris sessions have been getting out one statement after

Agree to List German Problem as Item 1

Paris—The Western powers agreed today to list the German problem as Item No. 1 on the agenda of a Big Four foreign ministers meeting demanded by Russia, but ran into new objections from Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko. When the Big Four deputies assembled for their sixth session, the western delegates proposed a new wording of the first plank of the original agenda submitted on Monday. Specifically, the revised paragraph would seek to establish a basis of lasting friendship between east and west. It also proposes "execution of obligations resulting from treaties already concluded and study of the level of present armaments and questions connected with Germany in this field." But Gromyko immediately complained the western compromise plan failed to mention German demilitarization and prohibition of German rearmament.

Gucciardo to Again Try to Gain Pardon

Harrisburg—Giacomo Gucciardo, 57, will try March 20 for the third time to wipe the slate clean of a 23-year-old murder stemming from his cousin's frustrated love. Sentenced to life imprisonment for hiring three Brooklyn men to carry out the killing, he was paroled April 20, 1943, after his seventh appeal for commutation was approved by the State Pardons Board. Now he is asking the board to reconsider two previous applications for a pardon. The Bristol man was convicted of hiring the men for $500 to beat up John Tilotto, also of Bristol, husband of Maria Tilotto, with whom Gucciardo's cousin, Joe Guida, was infatuated, according to the record. The men beat Tilotto to death on a lonely road in December, 1928. They were never apprehended. Guida died in the electric chair for his part in the crime. Mrs. Tilotto was released from the Muncy Industrial Home for Women after serving 22 years of a life sentence. She was said to have served more time than any other woman in prison in Pennsylvania.

UN-EARTH ANCIENT MILE-STONE ON RT. 13

Chamber of Commerce to Take Steps to Have Such Protected

THERE FOR 150 YEARS

Workmen for the Chamber of Commerce, which body is clearing the south side of old Route 13 in its beautification campaign to make the entrance to Bristol borough more attractive, have un-earthed an ancient iron marker. Arthur Pilla, chairman of the committee supervising the work, consulted Edward Barnsley, Newtown, one of Bucks County's historians, who advised that the marker is one of the original ones placed by George Washington, over 150 years ago.

At that time Philadelphia was the capital of the nation, and the figures on the one side of the marker indicate the mileage to Philadelphia, while the figure on the other side shows the distance to Trenton, N. J.

Mr. Barnsley advised the Chamber of Commerce to make every effort to preserve the marker.

Plantings are at the site, and chains fastened to four iron posts will surround and protect the marker.

"If the marker is not sufficiently secure in the ground we will have it imbedded in concrete," states Mr. Pilla.

POWER AND PLUNDER

As a member of the United States Senate, James E. Murray of Montana had a right to say a good word on behalf of a constituent who wanted a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Many other members of Congress have done the same thing, and no stigma attaches to their action.

But Mr. Murray admits that it was his son, lawyer for the Florida hotel seeking the loan, who asked him to intercede. And the plush hospitality could not be listed as a "constituent" of Mr. Murray's. It is, in fact, located 3,000 miles from the state he represents in the Senate. The Senator's son collected a fee of $21,000.

Senator Murray's behavior in this instance reveals again the double standard that is the mark of so many professional new dealers—a group of which Murray is perhaps the most conspicuous and vocal member.

In public they beat their breasts in contemplation of the woes of the underprivileged and hold up their hands in holy horror at the mere thought that some business man has been granted a favor in Washington or has become the beneficiary of the expenditure of federal money.

In their private capacity, they are often guilty of shady practices and have no hesitation in helping their cronies and friends, even when it is at the expense of the taxpayers.

All the bright young boys, it will be noticed, managed to do pretty well by themselves. A $9,450 mink coat for a wife was all in the day's work. So were extended vacations, on an "everything complimentary" basis, at the swank Florida hotel which was built with a government loan.

To live pleasantly and at a minimum of expense all that was necessary was to be an RFC examiner or to have influence with the RFC.

PLANNING TROUBLE

Only a few years ago the government had a plan to prosper the South by converting it from a cotton economy to a corn, livestock and hay economy. The South has been making some progress along that line with considerable benefit. A one-crop economy is seldom good for any region.

Now the government has changed its mind. The cotton supply picture is rather dismal, with much higher prices for shirts, sheets, etc., imminent. The government now proposes that the South, with its 6,000,000 farm population, get busy and grow at least 16,000,000 bales, which would be a tremendous effort throwing the corn-livestock economy out of balance. Ten million acres now devoted to other crops would be supplanted by cotton. Many farmers lack machinery for cotton production.

Cotton at 40 cents per pound will be a bonanza for producers if crops are good. But after the emergency they will be committed to cotton again with the same old surplus bogey staring them in the face.

tailings materials penetrated lengths of casings, pumping levels, and the groundwater yield. Unlicensed drillers would be subject to fines ranging up to $500 while those failing to report within the stipulated time would face $100 fines or imprisonment. Licenses would be renewable after one year.

"The purpose of this front office measure is to find out all we can about groundwater," Smith said. "State geologists currently check test wells but they cannot keep close check on variances because of the vast task involved." State Geologist S. H. Cathcart reported his division keeps an eye on "several hundred" test wells. Fresh groundwater is recharged from underground sources drawing on surface supplies.

Cathcart explained that there is no one water table for Pennsylvania.

"Supplies drop where the demand is too great and the water is taken out faster than nature can replenish it," he explained. "So far the situation is not critical but if we keep on increasing the demand a serious shortage might develop."

Cathcart indicated support of the Smith bill by pointing out that a county-by-county check made of test wells by Department agents is not up-to-date because of the immensity of the task.

Mandatory reports would enable experts to accurately gauge supplies and see danger signs.

Groundwater changes with the geologic structure, he pointed out, and a thorough tabulation would be valuable to industry.

Smith's bill states flatly that "the alarming increase in the use of the underground waters of the Commonwealth is due to the growth in population and industrial development and is constituting a threat to the water supply of the citizens."

Reports to the Department of Internal Affairs have shown that some industries, particularly in eastern Pennsylvania, have been forced to close from time to time when the level of underground fresh water has dropped below the salt water table. To prevent damage to production and equipment, operators close their plants until the groundwater level has returned to normal.

HIBERNIANS WILL MEET PROFY'S IN PLAY-OFF START

The Profy and the Hibernians teams will clash tomorrow afternoon in the first of a three-game series to determine the playoff championship of the Bristol Basketball League. There will be a preliminary game starting at two o'clock with the main game following.

Profy entered the final playoffs by besting Franklin in a hard-fought tilt, 52-51, while the Hibernians got in by the skin of their teeth on a 56-54 score over Luciano. During the regular season, the Hibs finished fourth while the Profy captured the crown.

Although it has lost several players to the armed forces, the Profy team is riding the crest of an eight-game winning streak, not having been beaten since January 14th. The Mill streets have been playing with six players in recent games. Buck Profy, Eddie Oliver, Alan Burton, Bert Miles, Howard Grant, and Joe Pindar. The latter won the individual scoring honors for the season.

The Hibs have been in and-out team all season. When it is "on," the Hibs are the hardest team in the circuit to beat. On its "off" nights, it lost games that it should have packed away easily.

Manager "Pete" Harkins has quite an array of eligible players but will depend on his starting lineup of: Bill McGerr, Tom Donnelly, Norman White, Charlie Simmons, and Bill Burr. Burr is by far the best play-maker of the league and has been outstanding in Hibs' triumphs all season.

The second game of the series is scheduled for Wednesday evening. In the preliminary game on this night, the Rohm & Haas team will play Fort Dix.

BOWLING

FEDERAL LEAGUE

Jackson Fuse, the team that is setting the pace in the second half, again came out on the long end of a match with Cattani's Beverages. They took two games and total pins for three points. Cont's Service took over second place by taking four points from Leedom's.

MEANWHILE -
